

AGRONOMY ADVISING MISSION STATEMENT
Department of Agronomy

The department strives to create a supportive and effective advising environment for faculty and for students seeking degrees in agronomy. Faculty members are departmental leaders in creating mentoring relationships with undergraduate students to promote the personal and academic development of each student. Faculty advising is a cornerstone of our department, aiding students in self-discovery, in developing academic breadth, depth, and a respect for truth, and in becoming better global citizens and leaders in their professions.
